- Behavioural problems; often stemming from minor aches and pains

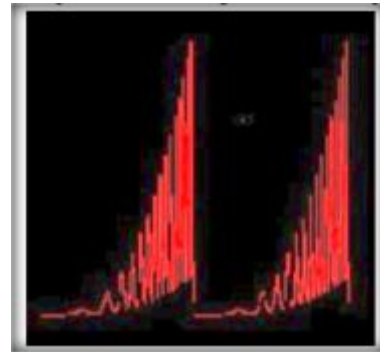

BEMER Therapy Explained:

The BEMER VET therapy device was developed 20 years ago in 1998 under the auspices of Professor Dr. Wolf A Kafka from University of Munich which is affiliated to the prestigious Max Planck Institute in Germany. Prof. Kafka developed a breakthrough, internationally acclaimed and patented means of effectively applying pulsed electromagnetic field therapy in such a way that a non-invasive, gentle and holistic treatment became possible for the first time---BEMER therapy.

The BEMER therapy is science-based and clinically proven in terms of consistent, high efficacy results and is explainable in terms of basic bio chemical processes. Biological systems are, as a rule, open systems which derive their functionality and life-characteristic by means of an interaction or metabolism with oxygen, nutrients, light energy from the sun and the geomagnetic field. Hence energy is supplied to an organism from external sources which in turn cause complex interactions at cellular level between the different forms of energy. The BEMER VET therapy was developed and tested to recognize this vital energy-interaction.

Magnetic Field Therapy has been around for centuries and consists of a large number of diverse treatments. Some are applied by means of permanent magnets such as magnetic bracelets, point magnets placed on strategic points on the body, permanent magnet equipped mattresses, diverse electro magnets in form of coils etc., to provide just some examples. Although their benefits are probably positive, these are marginal and they are medically insignificant.

The BEMER changed all that in 1998. With BEMER and the BEMER VET device, pulsed electromagnetic field therapy came of age both in human applications and in veterinarian applications by being clinically and scientifically sound, consistent and with relatively high efficacy. Suddenly the state of the art BEMER approach lifted the “fog of ignorance of why it worked, inconsistency in the therapeutic results and the medical acceptability due to lack of clinical trials” with respect to electromagnetic field therapy.

Uniqueness of BEMER

BEMER is an acronym and stands for “Bio-Electro-Magnetic-Energy-Regulation”. The therapy is a special type of pulsed electromagnetic field therapy and represents a high-efficacy treatment for a large number of chronic ailments. BEMER therapy represents an emerging therapy which will become main stream for reasons articulated below.

Conventional electromagnetic field therapy devices make use of a sinusoidal, trapeze or rectangular wave shape pulse. The latter pulses are applied ailment-specific and as such these relatively simple pulses treat only a part of the organism as we now know. However, BEMER treats all cellular energy-related dysfunctions simultaneously.

By understanding the needs of the organism to balance and equalize all energy deficits wherever they may occur in the body, an effective bio electromagnetic energy regulation (B.E.M.E.R.), is achieved with the BEMER VET. Each organism strives to maintain life and health and to this end, a biological system has to maintain a continuously appropriate energy balance to maintain its functions and optimum performance.

The objective of biologically effective and supportive electromagnetic fields is to assist the enablement of regulation of the body’s health energy parameters. The insufficiency of this energy balance over time results in chronic ailments and dysfunctions. In this case the organism is not able to muster sufficient self-regulatory means to mobilize the immune system to fight and eliminate dysfunctions, biological intruders (such as bacteria and viruses) as well as all sorts of chronic ailments.

BEMER Therapy is thus not indication-oriented but supplies the organism with energy in a holistic fashion to enable the body to activate natural self-healing and self-regulating processes, irrespective of the indication. Even if an organ or function has deteriorated considerably due to illness, the energy supplied to the cells through the BEMER therapy will enable the cell functions to get back to strength and regain full performance.

Hundreds of thousands of BEMER VET users all over the world and tens of thousands of medical practitioners can confirm the effectiveness of this 20 year old device. Non-invasive and with no known side-effects, BEMER VET therapy represents the breakthrough in electromagnetic treatment which the thinking person has been waiting for.

Scientific Information

The magnetic intensity of the BEMER VET system lies within the range of the geomagnetic field of the earth (approximately 50 micro Tesla). This is below the limit of 100 microtesla determined by the World Health Organization to be safe.

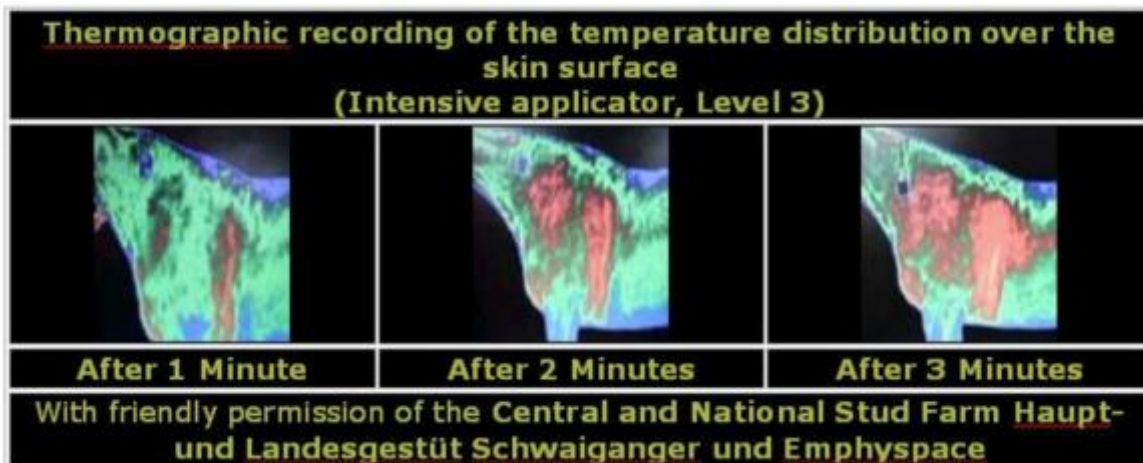

- BEMER VET Level I is equivalent to B3000 level 3 = 10,5 micro Tesla
- BEMER VET Level II is equivalent to B3000 level 6 = 21 micro Tesla
- BEMER VET Level III is equivalent to B3000 level 10 = 35 micro Tesla

There are no known side effects or contra-indications with the BEMER Vet. For the skeptics, there are case studies available and the process has been medically proven to work. Many different horses have been treated for a variety of ailments and there has been a particularly quick result in muscle injuries as well as swollen joints. The treated horses have come from different fields such as Show jumping, Dressage and Three-phase Eventing, and in almost every case the relief and benefit to the animal has been obvious, quick and long-lasting.

A major advantage of the BEMER Vet is that a lay person can easily use the equipment without any medical knowledge, although a sound understanding of the horse and how its muscular system works is advantageous. Due to the fact that the BEMER Vet is non-invasive, the generated field of the same order of magnitude of the earth's natural magnetic field and easy to apply, one cannot do any harm.

Workings

BEMER VET system supports the organism with the required electromagnetic energy. The nutrient and oxygen re-absorption into the cells as well as the excretion of metabolic waste is promoted. Disturbed functions can be normalized and the natural self-healing powers can be activated by improving the metabolism and the overall bio-energetic situation. In this manner, the application of BEMER VET counteracts injuries due to inappropriate strains, lack of movement, and environmental contaminants as efficiently as possible.

BEMER VET in equine veterinary medicine

Primarily injuries of the locomotor system result from improper keeping of animals. Special problem zones are determined depending on how the horse is used, e.g. in show jumpers; disorders of the flexor tendons as well as arthroses of the anterior toe joints, in military horse's injuries of the flexor tendons as well as of the fetlocks of the anterior extremities, and in trotter's arthroses of the toe joints, flexor tendon injuries, styloid fractures mainly as fatigue fractures as well as cancerous growth.

Meanwhile, thousands of small and large animals have been successfully treated for the most varied injuries and illnesses with the electro-magnetic field therapy. Extensive reports of general experiences are already available for the following clinical syndromes.

RECOMMENDED APPLICATIONS

- Illnesses and malfunction of joints, back muscles and the spine
- Fractures, dislocations, stiffness, contusions, swelling and sprains
- Slow healing wounds and bruises, laming, constipation/ digestion
- Nervousness prior to sporting events/shows, decreased performance
- Acute and chronic inflammation, tendonitis, tendovaginites

- Circulation and degenerative disorders involving all movement and support mechanisms, problems with hooves.

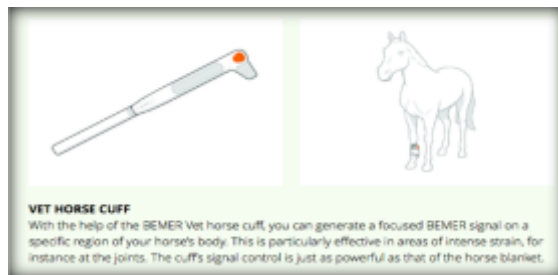

THE BENEFITS

- For small and large animals, non-invasive
- Natural, with no side effects or contraindications
- Dramatically speeds up healing/recovery time
- Supports and improves the effect of other therapies and medication, both traditional and natural
- Excellent success in chronic diseases where other therapies have failed
- Progressive veterinarians and caring animal lovers in over 30 countries use the BEMER VET system as the basic physical therapy for their animals.

The Modern Horse

Horses in their natural environment are not stationary creatures. They are in constant motion and are created for movement. Like modern man, horses, even those used in sports and leisure time, also suffer nowadays from insufficient and incorrect movement. They often stand for long periods in narrow confined boxes, sometimes for as much as 18 – 23 hours per day. And when they are exercised, consideration is not given to correct warm-up activities to get the body functioning slowly and correctly prior to hard work, in the same way as an athlete warms up prior to intense exercise. Nowadays, only a few horse owners can take time to give their horse the amount of training which corresponds to its natural and required need for movement.

Particularly horses used for sports are required to render performances much too early and too quickly, which they cannot master yet due to their constitution and condition. This is particularly evident in racehorses that breakdown early during intense training, sport horses which begin training movements before their bodies and muscular structure are mature enough to handle the strain and development, as well as leisure horses which are worked very hard and inconsistently based on their owner's work schedule.

Help for the Modern Horse

Thanks to Bio-Electro Magnetic Energy Regulation (BEMER) there is an opportunity to naturally balance these energy deficiencies via special electromagnetic impulses. The body's cells can produce more energy when the metabolism is activated. Disturbed control systems function again, and the self-healing powers are supported. Thus, the individually optimum state of health and functional capacity can be achieved by the application of BEMER on a regular basis. The BEMER system is based on the natural laws of life.

In the simplest terms, bio-electromagnetic therapy helps to restore performance, vitality and proper functioning by helping cells regain their natural healthy state.

YOU, YOUR HORSE AND BEMER THERAPY....
